Prevention and Access to Care for the Next Generation of Healthcare Professionals

Where are we with offering confidential access for healthcare professional well-being? How confidential is it for a healthcare professional to seek support or therapy when contacting a PHP? Do physicians and other healthcare professionals feel safe in seeking care and achieving their wellness? How do the workplace, credentialing entities, and licensure boards allow for nonpunitive alternatives to help-seeking?

Strategies for Optimizing Funding, Case Management, and Operational Performance for Physician and Professional Health Programs (PHPs)

Options for PHP funding; Techniques, programs, and skills to improve the case management of PHP program participants; Share your workflow process from a PHP referral call, to assessment, to intake, to recommendations and outcome; Compare strategies and policies among PHPs including those for different complex or relapsing participant situations; Policies and practices for addressing complaints or disagreements with PHP clinical recommendations; Toxicology testing practices for healthcare professionals; and Use of innovative IT and business solutions to improve operational performance.

Building and Fostering Relationships to Create Impactful Outreach with Stakeholders' Collaboration

Media, research, and public relations methods to most effectively convey an understanding of the work of PHPs; Illustrate impactful relationships with PHPs and medical boards, healthcare organizations, and state medical societies that improve your PHP outreach and referrals; Building Bridges—how are PHPs working with new and emerging wellness programs?; Elevate the PHP participant voice; Delve into methods for research and/or reporting your outcomes and PHP satisfaction in your annual report; and Comparisons of PHP, FAA, Dentist, Attorney, and Nursing programs; and Advocacy with legislators, regulators, and medical societies.

Evaluation and Treatment

A review of the many unique aspects of healthcare professional evaluation and treatment including psychological and personality testing, collateral information gathering and coalescing; the scope and limitations of a comprehensive evaluation including methods for formulating fitness-for-duty and return-to-work recommendations; and Next-generation treatment modalities for medical professionals and other safety-sensitive professionals.
