"When Will Physicians Feel Safe Seeking Mental Health Care?"

Despite significant strides in eliminating intrusive licensing and credentialing questions, many physicians still hesitate to seek mental health care due to fear of professional repercussions. This article by AMA Contributing News Writer Tanya Albert Henry explores the ongoing efforts to create a safer environment for physicians to prioritize their well-being and highlights additional steps needed to ensure they can access the mental health support they deserve without stigma or fear.

FSPHP Attends the ACGME Annual Education Conference

Linda Bresnahan, FSPHP Executive Director, and Dr. Chris Bundy, FSPHP Chief Medical Officer and Executive Medical Director of the Washington Physicians Health Program recently attended the 2025 Accreditation Council for Graduate Medical Education (ACGME) Annual Educational Conference in Nashville.

This year's conference theme, "Meaning in Medicine," highlighted the importance of aligning personal and professional values, promoting well-being, and fostering collaboration within the healthcare community. In support of this theme, Dr. Bundy presented "Physician Health Programs and GME: A Candid Conversation," featuring panelists Courtney Barrows McKeown, MD, and Cindy Hamra, JD, MA, FACHE.
